FRESHEST GLEANINGS

[illegible]

Susan B. Anthony when called for at the late Woman's Rights Convention in Hartford was not visible Search being made she was found in an obscure apartment of the building indulging in an agreeable waltz with a young gentleman supposed to be [illegible] She said she was trying to get warm Having concluded her dance she was [illegible] and made her speech

The best quality of sponge is found in the Mediterranean, but an excellent quality is found [illegible] of the Bahamas and the [illegible] Florida. The sponge when torn from the rocks to which it adheres is a heavy, black looking mass having a strong and offensive odor In order to clean the sponge it is buried in the earth for some weeks at the end of which time all the organic matter will be decomposed, only the pure fibrous skeleton remaining

Bonds to the amount of $437,000 have just been issued to the Union Pacific Railroad Company, in payment to the road of the one thousand and twentieth to the one thousand and thirty third mile from Omaha This amount releases the Government from further payment until the junction of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific is decided upon The Union Pacific therefore is paid to Ogden and the track from that point to Promontory will be paid for when the junction is fixed It is now stated however that the junction will be fixed at Ogden

A singular claim is to come before the Mexican commission which is to meet in December It has been believed in that country for a long time that when the Jesuits were driven out they buried in one of their principal colleges an immense amount of treasure Among many unsuccessful efforts to discover this treasure was one by a company of Americans and Spaniards, whose machinery for the purpose of excavating was seized and destroyed in one of the numerous political revolutions in Mexico They estimate their loss as now amounting to $80,000 and this sum they seek to recover

The New York Times of the 9th inst. has the following The failure of the house of A. Binin ger & Co wholesale liquor dealers, No 92 Liberty street established in 1778 was announced yesterday and created much excitement in business circles This firm occupied the same position in the line of its special business as that of A T Stewart & Co in dry goods It was the oldest house of the kind in this country It is stated that the assets of the concern greatly exceed the liabilities, but that it will take some time to reduce them to cash The creditors have been asked for an extension of time, which will probably be granted

The Raleigh Standard of the 4th inst. has the following relative to the false reports about the colored militia of North Carolina: To our Northern exchanges which have been receiving false reports about colored militia being sent to war against the Kuklux of Orange and Chatham counties, say that such reports are entirely unfounded, and were probably intended to influence Northern elections Neither a loyal nor white militia have been sent to any county in the State and no colored militia is being organized or armed for such a purpose There are thirty colored militia on duty in this county—twenty at one place and ten at another—and these were called out by Magistrates Therefore it will be seen that the reports sent from this city were entirely unfounded

The New York Herald adds to Democrats thus The only one to nominate as a competitor with General Grant, who has a chance of success appears to be General Thomas His war record is scarcely less distinguished than that of General Grant He won the first really great and important battle as well as the one most decisive of the war He is a man of splendid acquirements, solid and large brain a high toned gentleman of irreproachable character and a Virginian who could probably carry the whole South negroes and all in a Presidential contest. Such a ticket as Thomas and Hancock for the Democratic party, with a platform based on the living issues of the day, would be hard to beat, even with General Grant as the opposing candidate What do the Democrats say? Will they abandon their old party hack and dogmas and take up such a man as General Thomas for 1872? The only trouble is that Gen Thomas is as good a Republican as Gen Grant and wouldn't take a Democratic nomination

Free Trade and the Labor Question.

The Springfield (Mass) Republican is a journal which inclines strongly to free trade yet it is constrained to notice the fact that one of the most striking features of discussion of the present year has been the decided way in which the workingmen have pronounced in favor of protection The Republican says

They did so in the labor congress at Philadelphia they have done so in a feeble way even in England where free trade was supposed to be supreme and they have done so in France where the question comes up in connection with the commercial treaty between France and England This treaty was negotiated by Cobden and Chevalier in the interests of free trade ten years ago but it had to be done secretly in France on account of the opposition of the protectionists which the Emperor did not like to encounter [illegible] Now it has become a public question [illegible] the [illegible] of the Emperor being to the effect that no commercial treaty shall be negotiated without the consent of the legislature And in discussing this dispute has arisen concerning the effect of the treaty not only on the industry but on the condition of the laboring class of France. The suggestion is made that a searching inquiry be instituted into the condition of French industry and the effect upon it of the commercial treaty not an inquiry of government officials but one directed by a commission composed of men of different opinions If this should be done it would probably appear that, however great the advantages of free trade from an economical point of view that is as increasing the aggregate wealth of the country it has yet to be shown that it does good socially by improving the condition of the poorer classes At any rate the workingmen themselves are inclined to believe that it does not and this is the position maintained by Horace Greeley and most of the American protectionists

M[illegible] George Walker while in Europe recently [illegible] opportunity to examine the tendency of [illegible] the question in France and England and he declares that [illegible] [illegible] more marked and takes [illegible] which we in America have been wont [illegible] that as against the pauperized labor of [illegible] does guard the interests of the workingmen Even Stuart Mill [illegible] at the social complications of the [illegible] problem has been understood [illegible] were he an American he might [illegible] an open question We have [illegible] that it will be open for a long time [illegible] will be discussed [illegible] will more and more regard to the effect on the social and moral well being of the laboring [illegible] It is a formidable [illegible] the free trade policy of England [illegible] has immensely increased the aggregate wealth of the country it has not improved the condition of the [illegible] The [illegible] of pauperism were never greater in Great Britain than now though it is [illegible] the condition of the strictly manufacturing population is better than in 1864 [illegible] we are not likely to adopt the policy of England and though it is for our interest to [illegible] the tariff as fast as [illegible] keep constantly in view the social as well as the economical aspect of free trade which is becoming so prominent in Europe

FOREIGN NOTES

Some interesting experiments have taken place at Perm Russia with a new twenty inch gun. The gun was fired 314 times the projectile weighs 1,000 pounds and the charge of powder required for each shot was 130 pounds The weight of the gun is about fifty tons the recoil seven feet, the initial velocity of the projectile 1,120 feet per second and the percussion force, at a distance of fifty feet about 10 000 tons

A model of the proposed bridge across the British channel is to be erected over the lake in the Bois de Boulogne In constructing the channel bridge the piers are to be floated to the appointed spot and then the buoys being withdrawn they fall into their position. Each pier is armed with telescopic screws of enormous strength which are worked into the bed The piers are so constructed that water pours through them with little resistance and each pier is provided with a staircase up which should vessels run foul of them the crew could run and go home by train

During the late meeting of astronomers at Vienna, eight leaves of J. F. Schmidt's new Atlas of the Moon were submitted to their inspection and highly approved by them They are the result of nearly thirty years' study, [illegible] at Hamburg and completed at Athens. The atlas is to consist of twenty five plates, which are six Parisian feet in diameter While only 5,000 craters are marked on the lunar maps of [illegible] and Madler from 20,000 to 30,000 are to be found on the Athenian map, and a proportionate number of mountains hills, &c., have been exactly determined

The aggregate receipts of the Prussian State railways and the lines in which the Government possess an interest have been estimated in the budget in Berlin for 1870 at 35,372,614 thalers and the entire expenditures at 22,754,381 thalers so that it is calculated there will be an available balance of 12,618,233 thalers. If we deduct from this sum 7 675,878 thalers interest on bonds and 2,347 533 thalers for paying off [illegible] obligations, the net profit derived from the State railways for the year will be about 2,594,722 thalers. Prussia and France are making the railways which they have built [illegible] pay off their national debts, and so should the United S[illegible]

A rumor has been circulated in England, on the authority of a prominent Catholic [illegible], that "a very large body" of the [illegible] of the Church of England have prepared a petition to be sent to the Council of the Vatican, the prayer of which is, that, should the decision of the Council be unfavorable, as is [illegible] to the validity of Anglican orders, the [illegible] of their body who have [illegible] the [illegible] of the English Church through religious motives should be received into the Catholic Church, ordained as priests, employed as such, and allowed, if married, to continue so until the death of their present wives [illegible] married not to be employed as confessors. This is a strange story, but the authority for it is claimed to be good; [illegible] that many of the English Catholic bishops are favorable to the [illegible], and will urge its adoption by the Pope and the Council, and that the signatures to the petition are numerous, and increasing daily If there is as much truth in the statement as is claimed, then we will have a permanent bridge constructed between the Anglican and Roman Churches

Turkey had long been supposed to be in a moribund condition. But lately she has given evidence of [illegible] life. A short time since [illegible] was [illegible] her army and navy. [illegible] the news that she has just passed a law ordaining a system of universal education on a very comprehensive basis Every village and [illegible] must have its primary schools and [illegible] religious denomination must have its own, but the [illegible] of children will be compelled Girls as well as boys must attend Normal schools are instituted for male and female [illegible] The studies of the higher primary and preparatory schools include Turkish, Persian, Arabic, French, arithmetic, geography, history, geometry, [illegible] political economy. The population of the empire numbers about 40 000,000, quite sufficient to constitute a first-class power, even in these days of great nationality It may be that the opening of new routes to the East [illegible] with an improvement in the social condition of the people may yet enable the "sick man," as the late Emperor Nicholas called him, to get on his legs again

The opening of the Suez canal is [illegible] by commercial men in that country to give [illegible] advantages to Russian trade. [illegible] preparations are being made for using it largely as a means of communication with India and Central Asia. The Steam Navigation Company at Odessa has determined to establish a [illegible] line of steamers between the southern ports of the Empire and the East and has sent an agent to India for the purpose of obtaining [illegible] as to the quantity and quality of the articles of commerce which it might be profitable to import into Russia. Telegraphic communication is also to be established between the Southern ports and Constantinople. Meanwhile the Government has made a very good stroke of policy, with the object of strengthening its influence in Central Asia It has persuaded the [illegible] to send his son, who is thirteen years old, to the Russian University at Warsaw, thus securing a valuable hostage for the Emir's future friendship and and at the same time gaining an opportunity of filling the young prince's mind with admiration of the greatness of Russia, and a conviction of the hopelessness of resisting her

A Slate for a Beginner

The [illegible] says that in March last the bonded debt was $2,10[illegible] and in November $2,10[illegible]. This shows an increase of $52[illegible] in eight months. Now this is only remarkable because it is a discrepancy which overthrows the argument of our contemporary and must needs completely destroy all confidence in Boutwell. The bonded debt [illegible] the figures representing it can only be changed legitimately by the issuance of new bonds or the cancellation of old ones. In the first instance the figures would be increased and in the second they would be diminished. Now, our contemporary in order to explain its own figures must confess either that new bonds to the amount of $52 [illegible] have been issued or that a mistake of that much has been made. If it takes the first alternative the further explanation must be given of why new bonds are being issued in the face of representations of a decrease in the debt and the second a confession of so considerable an error vitiates the whole statement and confesses to the very fraud and sophistry charged by the Herald

Here we have a revelation of the absolute inability of the editor of the Herald to comprehend the plainest facts in regard to the financial affairs of the country. Such density of ignorance, such absolute opacity of understanding, as the writer of the above extract exhibits, may challenge a parallel anywhere, without the least danger of finding it. No one who has the smallest idea of the workings of national finance could write such a paragraph, it is only the utterly ignorant blunderer who could perpetrate such a thing.

The OREGONIAN did not say that the whole bonded debt had increased since last March. It said that the gold bonded debt, or the bonds bearing interest in gold, show a slight increase since that time. But during this period there has been a large reduction of bonds bearing currency interest, and also of the matured debt. Thus, while the amount of the debt bearing gold interest has been increased $82,750, the amount of the debt bearing currency interest has been decreased $9,500,000, and the matured debt has been decreased $1,032,277. And as the Herald does not know how it has happened that the bonds bearing gold interest have been increased by the sum of $82,750, let it understand that this slight increase is due to the conversion of bonds bearing currency interest into bonds bearing gold interest. But this increase of the gold bearing debt is nominal merely, not actual; for the bonds purchased for the sinking fund are to be deducted from it. These bonds amount to $64,280,747. The interest on them is regularly paid into the sinking fund for the purchase of more bonds. The gold bearing debt, though it stands in the exhibit for November at $2,107,936,800, in reality amounts to this sum less the $64,280,747 represented by the sinking fund, or to $2,043,656,053, against $2,107,854,050 last March. Putting the statement in tabular form, it stands as follows

	March 1.	Nov 1
United States 5-20's [illegible]	$1,602,587,850	$1,602,669,900
[illegible]		64,280,747
Other interest-bearing 5-20's	$1,602,587,350	$1,538,389,353
Other gold bonds	505,266,700	505,266,700
Total gold [illegible]	$2,107,854,050	$2,043,656,053
Reduction by Boutwell		$64,167,997

Now if the Herald can be made to understand the very simple fact that the bonds purchased for the sinking fund are included in the exhibits with the aggregate indebtedness, and that, after the whole sum is made up, they are subtracted from it, that paper will find a solution of the problem which puzzles it, but which would puzzle no Portland schoolboy of twelve years.

Again, if it can be made to comprehend the simple fact that in the reduction of that portion of the debt which bears currency interest (which reduction since last March amounts, as we have shown, to $9,500,000) some bonds of this class have been converted at currency [illegible] and at the option of the holder into bonds bearing gold interest, it will discover how it happens that the gold bearing debt has been nominally increased by the sum of $82,450.

The table above given represents the condition of the gold bearing debt only, as compared with its condition last March. We now give a statement of the other items of the debt

	March 1.	Nov 1
Currency interest debt [illegible]	$71,146,000	$61,640,000
Matured debt [illegible]	6,422,000	4,389,986
Debt bearing no interest [illegible]	421,573,180	421,880,220
Total [illegible]	$499,140,180	$487,910,206
Reduction since March		$11,229,974

The aggregate of these reductions ($64,197,867 on the gold bearing debt and $11,229,974 on the other forms of indebtedness) would amount to $75,427,841. But in this account the difference in the amount of interest due in March and in November, as well as the difference in the amount of cash in the Treasury at these dates respectively, is not taken into consideration. Adjust these differences and the net reduction of the debt since March last, is $64,382,070.

Nothing can be plainer than this whole problem, yet we can hardly suppose that the Herald will be able to understand it. It has always been observable that the paper which aspires to the rank of the leading Democratic organ of the State, has been a miracle of blundering stupidity. Each successive change of editors since its publication was first begun, has marked its progress downward from one degree of stupidity to another, and we are induced to think that it has now very nearly reached that unfathomable profound which, in Miltonic phrase, is deeper than the lowest deep.

Pilot Rates on Puget Sound

The Puget Sound Pilot Commissioners recommend an alteration of the rates of pilotage in those waters. Heretofore vessels have been compelled to pay as much for a pilot's services from Port Dungeness as from Cape Flattery, but it is recommended now that a scale of prices be arranged according to the distance. The Commissioners say

A vessel under fifteen feet draft, which pays at Cape Flattery eight dollars per foot, should pay, if boarded at Dungeness six dollars per foot and from Port Townsend to the mills four dollars per foot. Vessels of heavier draft in proportion [illegible] ten dollars a foot from the Cape eigh[illegible] dollars per foot from Dungeness, and six dollars per [illegible] from Port Townsend, and when the services of a pilot are not required one-half of the above rates to be paid.

At these rates as we suppose [illegible] will take vessels to any point on the Sound. The Commissioners say that believing them to be equitable they have assumed the responsibility of instructing pilots in accordance with them.

We copy further from the report

It is commonly believed and asserted that there is no need of pilots on Puget Sound, that the waters of Fuca Strait are as easily navigated as the open ocean, that there are no hidden dangers, and a stranger can proceed to any port on the Sound by aid of his chart alone. But a knowledge of the tides and currents and proper places for anchorage is quite as essential as a knowledge of the course to be steered. And it is a well known fact, that the tides and currents of the Straits of Fuca are very variable, being subject to other influences than the regular ebb and flow of the tidal wave [illegible] the [illegible] has a [illegible] in [illegible] at [illegible] the water [illegible] can [illegible] be had at certain intervals [illegible] shore [illegible] approach very near [illegible] strangers who fear to run boldly in from the [illegible] apprehension that they are close up [illegible] when they are actually a long distance off and [illegible] and [illegible] true that [illegible] the waters of [illegible] there [illegible] particularly of San Francisco [illegible] the first [illegible] masters [illegible] foreign vessels look up [illegible] views of persons at that port to act as pilots. It [illegible] parties particularly [illegible] and [illegible] the underwriters of New York Boston and other Atlantic ports [illegible] take advantage of any [illegible] where there are no pilots and charge additional premium [illegible] insuring vessels bound to such places

It appears from this report that from 1860 to 186[illegible] no less than thirty [illegible] wrecks occurred at [illegible] the Straits of Fuca and the waters which form the entrance to the Sound. Taking this [illegible] account and [illegible] the pilot rates [illegible] the world has much advantage over the Columbia river

In General

It is calculated that were the entire Union peopled as densely as Massachusetts it would have a population of 619,000,000 a number far greater than that of China, which is the most populous Empire of ancient or modern times. Massachusetts has an average of one hundred and seventy three persons to the square mile

A New York journal says that Wall street has an utter horror of specie payments and the mere talk of specie payments always sends a cold chill through the veins of speculators." This class find their principal profits in the losses of the community and whether prices go up or down, or both at intervals "every way makes their gain," and nothing would be more unwelcome to them than a condition of affairs which would restore quiet and stability to our markets

The Des Moines (Iowa) Gazette notices a speech recently delivered by the new Secretary of War, and says of his political status "General Belknap not having been brought conspicuously into the politics of Iowa since the war, some who knew him as a former Democrat have been thereby led to believe that he was a Conservative, but we are assured that his heart has all along been in unison with the great principles of the Republican party, and that he has, in a quiet way, worked for the success of these principles. He has now, at any rate, placed himself on the record as thoroughly Radical and that he will, in the administration of the affairs of his office, honor Iowa and Iowa Republicanism as he has been honored, we do not question."

Not long ago the telegraph edified us with a synopsis of a speech delivered by Governor Hoffman of New York, in which he congratulated his party on its success in that State and promised to show that they had elected no man to office who could be corrupted or bought. The World criticises this speech, and says the Governor promises too much. It reminds him that "neither the conduct of all the Democratic members of the last Legislature, nor the repute of all the Democratic officers of our City Government, warrants so absolute an assumption that the mere fact of an election by the Democratic party is a guarantee of unassailable virtue." The World would have the Governor remember that the party he extols as a model of integrity embodies a full share of scoundrelism. And the World, being the leading journal of that party, ought know

REJOINDER.

TO THE PUBLIC —Several Agents of Life Ins. Companies have made a publication in reference to "Correspondence had on the payment of Policy No 13,054 to the widow of A. E. C. Miller pronouncing the correspondence "gross misstatements."

The statement of those Agents who attack us is as cool as it is incorrect. If they have a desire to give the public the "official letter" they refer to, they can have the use of it for publication. IT MAKES NO SUCH STATEMENTS AS THEY PRETEND TO QUOTE FROM IT. We have it on file and any gentleman who wishes can see it by calling at our office.

These agents of other companies further say "When he (Miller) found that he had a surplus in the Company which had been accumulating from dividends for several years he concluded to allow that amount to be applied to the payment of his premiums until it was exhausted, they then state

* Face of Policy	$5,000 00
Add cash to his Cr at time of death	221 00
		$5,221 00
Deduct notes given to the Company		5[illegible]0 50

They thus in one place assert the Policy to have a surplus to its credit but when they figure (figures tell the truth) they make the Policy in debt to the Company and deduct the indebtedness. They further say that the Policy "would have been carried not only to the date of Mr Miller's death but in any first class company for years without any additional payment," AND STILL THEY PROPOSE AT ALL RIGHT TO DEDUCT $349 50 AFTER ONLY SIX MONTHS; AND PAY $4,050 50. If their statements be true the Company should have paid more than the face of the Policy

We respectfully ask every citizen who holds a Policy in a company any of these gentlemen represent to read it and see whether if he fails to pay his premium on the very day it falls due if it is not declared to be null and void. THERE IS NO SAVING MASSACHUSETTS CLAUSE IN IT. Mr. Miller's annual premium was $163. He paid the same half cash and half note. At the time of his death four and a part of the fifth notes had been cancelled by his dividends and returned to him, the Policy was indebted for the balance on notes and interest to 21st Jan. 1869

	$175 76

Total charges	338 76
Add interest from Jan 21st to Aug 21	10 74
Making Amount deducted from face of Policy	349 50

In refutation of the statement made that 1,405 Policies forfeited in 1868, we refer to the same Commissioner Baines' last Report schedule D

The report says these Polices "Lapsed." They now come under the Massachusetts Lapse Laws as did Miller's Policy, and any of them would be paid under similar circumstances by our Company

Some Facts and Figures.

WE, GENERAL AGENTS OF LIFE INSURANCE Companies doing business in this city, have had our attention called to some gross misstatements from the Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, in relation to the settlement of the Policy No 13,054, which was held by the late A. C. E. Miller in that Company. We do not propose to submit to statements calculated to mislead the public about the operations of standard Companies doing business here, and therefore give the following statement, derived from an official letter written by the Actuary of the New England Life Insurance Company, which clearly proves that the Policy No 13,054 would have been carried, not only to the date of Mr Miller's death but in any first class Company for years, without any additional payment, and that in this instance, the "Massachusetts Lapse Law" had nothing to do with the payment of the claim, and that if Mr Miller had not had money to his credit in the hands of the Company in the shape of dividends, which he did not draw at the times they were declared because the Company failed to apprise him that he had anything to his credit until January, 1869, and he had not paid his premium for 1869 his family would not have been paid the amount of the policy

Mr Miller did not as the public are led to believe allow his policy to lapse

When he [illegible] that he had a surplus in the Company which had been accumulating from dividends for several years he concluded to allow that amount to be applied to the payment of his premiums until it was exhausted

Good Notices of Bro. Bill Hand.—We [illegible] the [illegible] good notice of Bro Bill Hand of the Mountaineer in the Allentown (Penn.) Democrat. We add the [illegible] are on Sunday of taking by the hand after an absence of seventeen years, our old friend Ass[illegible] [illegible] boy chum, Wm. M. Hand [illegible] now editor and publisher of the Mountaineer at Dalles, Oregon. He looks well and we are glad to state that he is doing well in a business way in this far off home. He still has the pleasing manner and good [illegible] he took away with him, and has lost none of the [illegible] which characterize the Hand family. It did us much good once more to grasp [illegible] hand, and revived many of the reminiscences of the time to way back in the past when we were boys together. The words of the poet involuntarily flashed upon the mind—

"Turn back, Turn back,
Oh Time in thy flight
Make me a youth again
Just for to-night."

In the good old days of yore we had many a [illegible] together, without a thought of the future. But the fates made our paths diverge, and while we sought our first success in Philadelphia, he turned his face to the Pacific coast, starting out from Philadelphia for New [illegible] where he enlisted for a whaling cruise [illegible] in 1852. During the first few years of his journeying he experienced quite a checkered life, and [illegible] many a daring trials and hardships. After knocking about on the "angry billows" in search of [illegible] of the deep, for some time, he managed to get a release at Honolulu, on the Sandwich Islands. Here he tried his hand in the "speculative" for a while, meeting with [illegible], and from thence he proceeded to California. [illegible] he tried his fortune in the "gold diggings," but finding it was not what it was cracked up to be, he packed up his duds and went to Oregon, where he enlisted under the U. S. Government for the subjugation of the Indian tribes, who just about that time were very troublesome. Unfortunately, while in almost one of the first fights with the savages, he was seriously wounded, from the effects of which he was sheltered in the Military Hospital at [illegible], for about six months. Being disabled from further duty, he was discharged by the Government, with a pension and a warrant for 160 acres of land. After leaving the hospital he went back to California and resumed work in a printing office. Here he did well, but not content to let "well enough alone," [illegible] again in mining for gold, meeting with [illegible] Subsequently he bought out a newspaper at Jacksonville, and after conducting this for awhile sold out and bought another. This he again sold out, and, about two and a half years ago, purchased the Mountaineer, at Dalles, which he still continues with much [illegible] and otherwise. He left his far off home on the 5th of October, and after 700 miles staging and 600 miles steamboating, took the Pacific Railroad, making the journey here in twelve days—having lain over one day in Chicago.

Drift wood.—Drift wood enough to form a considerable [illegible] has collected against the wharf and [illegible] at East Portland.

The [illegible] of Morrison street has been begun [illegible] and new sidewalks are to be constructed. The steamer Moses Taylor is unloading her railroad iron [illegible], at the steamship dock, and will not go [illegible] river.

[illegible] Rev. Gustavus Hines purposes commencing [illegible] of lectures on different subjects [illegible] three on the manners and customs of [illegible] and Japanese [illegible].

[illegible] call the attention of our citizens to the notice [illegible] called next Saturday afternoon [illegible] the expediency of adding an academic [illegible] to our Public School.

[illegible] jury of the Circuit Court recommended in [illegible] the building of a new court house, jail, etc. [illegible] an indebtedness of $14,857 90. To meet [illegible] there is in the Treasury in county [illegible] the list in the hands of the Sheriff, $18 [illegible] estimated that about $2,000 will be collected [illegible] from property assessable by the Sheriff [illegible] a total of $20,583 68.

[illegible].—The name of the man who committed [illegible] Monday evening at the hotel, corner of [illegible] streets, appears to have been Jacob [illegible]. He came there a few days ago from Corvallis. [illegible] had in one of his pockets a declaration of intention [illegible] a citizen of the United States, dated [illegible] May 21, 1866. The Coroner called a jury yesterday and held an inquest upon the body. The [illegible] the verdict returned:

"We, the jury, * * * find the deceased's name to be Jacob Radawasker, and that he is a Prussian by birth, about 30 years of age, and that he came to his death by his own hands, having cut his throat with a razor in the back yard of the Washington Hotel, in the city of Portland and State of Oregon, on or about 7 o'clock P. M. on the 22d November, 1869. We further find that said deceased was insane at the time he committed [illegible].

[illegible] Jefferson, foreman, P. S. Kearney, J. [illegible], J. F. Keese, R. Hawley, Geo. Fuller."

[illegible] Murder.—It will be recollected that a [illegible] we published an account of a man found [illegible] miles from Monticello, under circumstances [illegible] to the belief that he had been murdered. [illegible] old saying, "Murder will out," has been [illegible]. The man was murdered by two men, [illegible] a half-breed, has confessed the crime and is [illegible] jail at Steilacoom. He confesses that he and a [illegible] Wilson did the murder. Wilson immediately [illegible] came to this city and has been staying here [illegible] the officers being apprised of the half [illegible] and authorized to apprehend Wilson [illegible] and arrested him. These are all the particulars [illegible] at present.

Circuit Court—Upton Judge.—Proceedings of Tuesday, Nov. 23d:

[illegible] Starr vs. Benj. F. Starr; default of defendant [illegible] and case referred to Geo. A. Durham [illegible].

State of Oregon vs. John Wall, continued until next term of Court on affidavit filed by defendant.

State of Oregon vs. Ah Wan and Ah Chu; continued [illegible] on affidavit filed by defendants.

State of Oregon vs. Indian Jim; indicted for murder in the first degree. Verdict of manslaughter. Thursday next set for pronouncing sentence.

[illegible] this morning Heath and Ripley will be sentenced [illegible] for larceny.

[illegible] at Victoria.—By the papers brought by the Gussie Telfair, we learn that Wilson's Circus was [illegible] 13th inst., playing at Victoria to full houses. [illegible] took a benefit on the evening of the 13th [illegible] the pavilion was crowded to its utmost capacity. [illegible] left on the 14th per steamship Active [illegible]. Prof. Morey was doing a thriving business [illegible] to crowded houses and distributing [illegible]. Mrs. Fanny Morgan Phelps [illegible] giving [illegible] and vocal entertainments but was [illegible] to leave shortly for New Westminster, [illegible] in a few days.

Dalles Woolen Mills.—Yesterday we met Mr. Dun[illegible], superintendent of the Dalles Woolen Mills [illegible] that the sale of the mills does not [illegible] except temporarily. The Company [illegible] building and the sale was made to a principal [illegible]. There are still some encumbrances upon the [illegible] but it is expected that such arrangements will [illegible] as will enable the owners to resume active [illegible] toward the close of winter. We are glad to hear that there is no intention of abandoning the enterprise.

Going East.—W. H. Gray and wife, of Astoria, go [illegible] San Francisco on the Moses Taylor, whence they will go to the East on a visit. They have been in Oregon since [illegible] 1838, and during all this time Mrs. Gray has [illegible] back home. Mr. Gray was back East in [illegible]. His first visit to Oregon was in 1836. Their present visit East will last about two months. Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] are also going. The principal object of Mr. Gray's [illegible] to the East is to have his History of Oregon [illegible] published.

[illegible].—Rev. J. D. Raynor, U. S. Army Chaplain, for two years stationed at Sitka, arrived at this city last evening. He is en route to San Francisco, being under orders to report at Division Headquarters for assignment. Rev. and Mrs. Raynor came by way of Puget Sound, Olympia and Monticello, and will proceed this morning overland for California.

Real Estate Sale.—Mr. A. B. Richardson will sell to-day at 2 o'clock P. M. at the court house, for the [illegible] of Mary Quinn, all the interest of the said Mary Quinn, a minor, in forty-seven acres land the [illegible] part of the donation claim of Terrance Quinn [illegible] one mile and a half from the ferry landing at East Portland.

[illegible].—The schooner J. C. [illegible] sailed for Tillamook Bay yesterday afternoon, with a [illegible] cargo of merchandise and provisions.

Dedication of a New Hall.—The new place of worship [illegible] called Harmony Hall—upper story of Gillman's [illegible] will [illegible] Rev. B. J. Tallwell [illegible]. This Hall [illegible] we understand it belongs to the Spiritualists, but will [illegible] for their public meetings.

[illegible].—Complaints [illegible] the mails [illegible] and Oregon City, the mails [illegible] arriving until [illegible] is found [illegible] the mails early at night. Under the present arrangements, all letters [illegible] within them [illegible] the [illegible].

[illegible].—[illegible] the public [illegible] day and continue [illegible] afternoon [illegible] term will begin on Monday Dec. 6th.

Meeting of the Board of Statistics, Etc.—The Board of Statistics and Immigration will have a meeting at the office of the Secretary at one o'clock this afternoon. A report of the operations of the Association to date will be [illegible] by the Secretary.

The Work Begun.—The spirit [illegible] finally [illegible] commenced the work of erecting that Band Stand on the Plaza. It is to be a six-sided structure with a roof and a [illegible] for the Bootblacks.

Tillamook Cattle.—The cattle from the Tillamook at this city still [illegible] out of order. The boys were [illegible] away at it all day yesterday with [illegible] success.

Commissioner of Deeds.—Gov. Woods has appointed Mr. H. [illegible] of Walla Walla, to be Commissioner of Deeds for Oregon, to reside at Walla Walla.

An Interesting Letter on Oregon by Governor Bross, of Illinois, is published on [illegible] page to-day.

For Sitka.—We hear that the Geo. S. Wright will make a trip to Sitka shortly.

From the Walla Walla Union we learn that Dr. Robert Newell died at Lewiston on Sunday, Nov. 14th. He was born at Zanesville, Ohio, in 1807, and was one of the last of the early pioneers who crossed the Rocky Mountains in 1835, and for a few years lived at the Tualatin. He settled at Champoeg, Marion county, Oregon, in 1845, and was one of the members of the first Legislature of Oregon called together under the Provisional Government. No one's name is more familiar to the people of Oregon than that of Dr. Newell. He was a member of the Legislature of Oregon in 1860, and was appointed Indian Agent for the Nez Perce Indians in 1868, over whom he has for thirty years exercised great influence. He leaves a large family of children, and one sister, residing in Umatilla county, Oregon.

Use KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP. It washes without rubbing. For sale by Allen & Lewis, Corbitt & McClehy, R. G. Sneath and all retailers.

The Railroad Iron continues to arrive by hundreds of tons. The Webfoot having a locomotive on board is on her way to our city, and everything to facilitate the building of the great Railroad is progressing as well, as those Nonpareil Beaver Suits and those extra Scotch Chinchilla "Roundabouts" are selling at KOHN & FISHEL'S, whose Stock of CLOTHING and GENTS FURNISHING GOODS is the handsomest ever imported to Oregon, and their principle of selling with SMALL PROFITS proves a benefit to the public as well as to themselves. Their Stock of DRY GOODS is positively offered at COST.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 16, 1869.

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, Boston.

Gentlemen.—On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children, I beg to thank you, and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Boston, for its munificence in paying me my husband's policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January, 1869, misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non-payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only), thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws, that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. I sincerely thank you again, gentlemen, for the payment, and also for your generous and gentlemanly assistance in the matter.

Respectfully, BETSEY MILLER.

PORTLAND, OREGON, Nov. 16, 1869.

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES, General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston.

Gentlemen.—Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family left by an old resident of this city, who died Aug. 2, 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public:

A. E. C. Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No. 13,064, bearing date January 21, 1865. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2, 1869, over eighteen months after last payment of premium, yet your company, working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts, pays the widow and orphans the whole policy, deducting only the premium due, while in all other companies doing business here, about which we know anything, the policy would long since have been forfeited.

By the New England Mutual the widow has been paid $4,350 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity, this is Mutuality. We therefore commend this company to the public, as the only company that has no forfeitures.

We herewith inclose you the acknowledgments of the widow. Respectfully yours, etc.

JACOB MAYER,
GEORGE H. FLANDERS,
M. SELLER.

Gentlemen.—Your favor of yesterday inclosing acknowledgments of Mrs. Miller is at hand.

Please accept our thanks for the voluntary justice you have done the company we represent.

Yours Very Truly,
EVERSON & HAINES.

Nature, when struggling with disease, [illegible] mistaken [illegible] counteract [illegible]. In cases of nervous weakness and general debility [illegible] pulse, the lack luster eye, the attenuated frame, [illegible] the muscles [illegible] the victim [illegible] that [illegible] a tonic is needed. [illegible] new vigor [illegible] exhausted system. Every [illegible] these lines can comprehend it just as well as the [illegible] physicians [illegible] nature [illegible] neglected [illegible] HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation [illegible] the properties of a stimulant and invigorant [illegible] alterative. Before three days have elapsed from the taking of the first [illegible] a marked [illegible] change will be manifest in the bodily and mental condition of the patient. The pulse will be stronger [illegible] the system [illegible] improve. [illegible] the depressed animal and mental powers is certain. In cases of dyspepsia and biliousness the same salutary results will be obtained. The appetite will revive, the sallowness of the skin disappear and all the distressing symptoms which accompany disorders of the stomach and liver will rapidly subside. The cold of winter often intensifies these complaints by checking the perspiratory action, by which so much morbid matter is evaporated through the pores in milder weather, and therefore the BITTERS are especially useful to the dyspeptic and bilious at this season.

Something about Oregon

ITS RESOURCES [illegible] AN INTELLIGENT TRAVELER.

Letter from [illegible] Tribune
Portland, Oregon, Sept 5

The mountains of Oregon are so high and so precipitous that a very large proportion of the State is not available for agricultural purposes except that, like the same kind of country in California, the valleys and lower sides of the mountains can be very successfully used in the raising of stock. The valleys of the Rogue and Umpqua rivers in Southern Oregon are narrow and what land can be cultivated is exceedingly productive. They produce wheat, and, in fact, nearly all kinds of farm product, most abundantly. But the great trouble is to find a market for them. Think of feeding wheat as fine as the best that comes to Chicago from Southern Illinois or Missouri to cattle and hogs or making it into whiskey! This is the only way that any money can be got out of it. A gentleman told us at Roseburg in the Umpqua Valley that, were thousands of bushels of wheat given to him he could not afford to haul it to market. Of course, the railway from Sacramento to Portland will change all this.

Nothing can be more marked and curious than passing over the Siskiyou mountains from the Klamath valley, in California, to that of Rogue river, in Southern Oregon. From jack pines and manzaneta bushes you pass, in two or three miles, into a densely-wooded region, whose trees and flowers, if not exactly like those of those of the Middle States are allied to them in species and appearance. The only reason we can give for this marked change is that the Canyon of the Klamath, through the Coast Range, is probably so crooked and narrow that the breezes of the Pacific cannot find their way to its upper valley while they are readily wafted up that of Rogue river, and fill it with fruitfulness and beauty. The change when entering this valley from California is also most sensible to the lungs, for the air is moist and delicious, and the tourist from our section feels that he has found a country where he is no longer parched by the air he breathes.

The valley of the Wallamet and those through which the tributaries of its beautiful river run furnish, if we mistake not, a richer and more extensive agricultural district than all the other valleys of the State put together. It is about 150 miles long by fifty to seventy-five miles wide. Here all the cereals grow in the greatest abundance and perfection. Most of the fruit trees were loaded so heavily that they broke down beneath their treasures. No one can understand how many apples can grow upon a tree until he sees an Oregon orchard. In scores of instances all our party agreed that the apples on the younger trees would weigh more than the trees themselves. There is too much rainy and cloudy weather in Oregon for that State ever to rival California in growing grapes and making of wine, but on the sides of the hills, especially where the soil is composed of disintegrated volcanic rocks, we should not be surprised if the wine grape grew in the greatest luxuriance and perfection. It is well known that from such soils the best wine of Europe is produced. Much of the wheat raised in Oregon has heretofore been credited to California, as it was first shipped to San Francisco, and thence reshipped to foreign ports, or to New York. The quality of it is very fine, and the produce merchants of Oregon are arranging for direct shipments, a considerable amount of which has been done during the present season.

The Walla Walla and Umatilla valleys, east of the mountains, are very productive, but the farmers depend upon irrigation for their crops, as the climate is dry, like that of Utah. Only four years ago, when we visited Oregon, immense amounts of flour, bacon, and other farm products were going up the Columbia, to feed the miners of Idaho and the settlers in the upper valleys, but now every steamer comes down the Columbia laden with tons of the same articles, from the Walla Walla and other valleys, to sell to whoever has the money to buy them. Such an immense revolution in trade has probably never before been witnessed in so short a time anywhere upon the earth. Large numbers of cattle, horses, and mules are also raised in the upper valleys, which are driven to White Pine and other Nevada and Idaho mining districts for a market.

Oregon is most bountifully supplied with

TIMBER.

Her pines, redwoods and firs are among the finest in the world, and the supply in the Coast and Cascade Ranges is practically exhaustless. This alone is a source of permanent and very great wealth to the State.

FISHERIES.

The salmon fisheries of the Columbia are destined to add very largely to the luxuries of the table among all the people of the world where great distance does not make the expense of transporting this delicious fish too great to render it an article of ordinary use. There are two modes of preparing them. In one case they are cooked, pickled, and spiced, as they are found in the groceries of Chicago. In the other, the fish is cleaned, cut up, and cooked in its own juices, immediately put in the cans and sealed up. Some idea of the business can be formed when we state that during the present season a single firm paid nine thousand dollars for penny stamps to put on their caps, according to the "law in such case made and provided." Prepared in this way, we know the fish is delicious, but each one must add vinegar, and whatever else his taste shall dictate. These preserved salmon are sold in Portland, at wholesale, at three dollars and a half a dozen, in gold—only a fraction over twenty-nine cents each. They certainly could be afforded in Chicago at fifty to sixty cents in currency—a price at which they would certainly come into very general use among our people.

Oregon is unquestionably rich in

but with a population, all told, not larger than two or three wards of Chicago, scattered over a territory one and a half times as large as New England, and with a climate so inviting and a soil so rich that most of the people are attracted to agricultural pursuits, the mineral resources of the State have been mostly neglected. Iron is found in great abundance, and the mines are largely and very successfully worked. The banking house of William S. Ladd, Esq., of Portland, has iron fronts made of native iron, and in size and beauty of its adornments it would be an honor to any city. Gold exists in paying quantities in several districts of the Cascade Range, and there is no doubt that most if not all the useful mineral will be found in the State.

With such a wide extent of country, with a climate so inviting, and valleys so broad, beautiful, and productive, and a majority of her people so enterprising and intelligent, Oregon is destined, in a very few years, to become one of the leading States in the Union. Her advantages need only to be known in order to attract a large immigration, and that of the very best citizens. California has heretofore overshadowed Oregon, and San Francisco has mainly absorbed the commerce that rightfully belongs to her. The opening of the Northern Pacific Railway will change all this, but of the prospects of the early completion of that road something will be said in my next.

OREGON'S FUTURE.

What Oregon now needs is a large influx of enterprising men to develop her riches of field and mountain. To such she offers the most inviting prospects. Many of her commercial and agricultural interests are just now suffering a temporary depression for the want of an active market for her products. The Wallamet valley—one of the richest and best agricultural districts that can be found anywhere—is now forced to seek customers by the ocean, for she can no longer send her surplus up the Columbia to supply the mining districts of Idaho. The Walla Walla and other valleys of the Upper Columbia, can do all that much cheaper, and will send thousands of tons of flour, bacon, etc., down the river to Portland.

Railways, manufactures, and other improvements will very soon change all this. Oregon, as yet, has no railways, with the exception of the three short lines heretofore noticed—viz, one of a mile or two around the Falls of the Wallamet at Oregon City; one of five miles around the Cascades, and the other of fifteen around the Dalles, on the Columbia. The first rail on the Oregon Central will be laid in a few weeks by Ben. Holladay, and it will be pushed as rapidly as possible south up the valley of the Wallamet to Eugene City, and ultimately to California. When done to Eugene City, some 125 miles, it will be of great service to the State, for it can at all times be relied on to transport wheat and other products down the valley, and thus the ships trading to Portland can be sure of cargoes at all seasons. Low water in the Wallamet during several months forces prices down to very low figures, for buyers must depend upon a very uncertain means of transport to get it to market, and any considerable number of ships cannot be sure of a cargo homeward. Oregon will feel most sensibly and favorably the opening of this road. Our party were greatly pleased to see a marked progress in the State during the last four years. Portland shows the most in the fine blocks and business houses one observes everywhere about the city. The homes of her leading citizens are models of taste and beauty.

In 1851 France had seventeen telegraph offices, and now there are 2,7[illegible]. The miles of telegraph lines have increased during the same time from 1,066 to 1,[illegible]

California has developed a new industry. It ships bales of chapparal leaves to China, where they are boxed up and sent back as tea.

On the Origin of Liars

A writer in the [illegible] [illegible] us [illegible] is nothing [illegible] lying as a Science. His standpoint is that of the old dualism which has [illegible] the realm of Nature [illegible] principle [illegible] [illegible] the one who is also the father of lies. It consequently lays it down as an axiom that [illegible] [illegible] the child must be taught to speak the truth.

Now we think that [illegible] this statement the writer is [illegible] [illegible] very free [illegible] the [illegible] claims and which has not been much damaged by his strictures. His proposition is exactly the reverse [illegible] truth. [illegible] [illegible] Nature [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] education. Truth is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] is an artificial acquisition. To say that children are natural and spontaneous liars, and truthful only as they are taught, is to [illegible] the defenceless [illegible] [illegible] purpose [illegible] [illegible] the responsibility [illegible] [illegible]

How we are born is undoubtedly [illegible] great and very important [illegible] and [illegible] factor in our nature is a far more potent and determining element in our destiny than it has been generally regarded. But it is easily misinterpreted and turned to mischievous ends. We unquestionably inherit predispositions, but, unless the organism is warped far out of the normal lines into morbid extremes, it is amenable to educational control. It is common to say that men are born musicians, poets or mathematicians, but this is loose language, they are only born with varying aptitudes in these directions. It is, after all culture and not Nature that makes the musician, the poet and the mathematician. So children are undoubtedly born with unequal moral capacities, but it is culture and not Nature that develops these capacities.

But it is not in this limited sense that the Temple-Bar writer is to be understood. He does not say that some men are born with a genius for lying, but that all men are born liars, or, in other words, that the reason why men lie is because Nature implanted the radical propensity to it in man's organic constitution. Let us see if Nature cannot be vindicated from this aspersion, and if the responsibility does not rest elsewhere.

The child at birth is simply a little bundle of latent possibilities—physical, intellectual and moral. While yet it can neither speak nor think, it certainly cannot lie. Thus far Nature is acquitted. There is simply no evidence that the facile and full-blown liar of manhood is the normal outcome of prenatal determination. The hypothesis is gratuitous, and what we have at last is simply the assertion that lying propensities are the first developments of childhood.

But we are not without a further and decisive clew of Nature's intention. Education is far from being entirely an affair of art. It so happens, and fortunately for the race, that Nature is our first teacher. Far from resigning her charge when she has ushered the little being into the world, she then commences to teach it, and carries the mental and moral development much farther than people generally imagine before art begins to interfere. And what is her policy? While at birth the power of thinking is at zero, because there is nothing to think about, the senses which furnish something to think about are complete and perfect for action from the first. The basis of mind is laid in the intercourse of the new-born infant with the world around it. Mental unfolding thus begins in experience, and an experience which deals solely with the truth of things. The senses give faithful representations of external objects, otherwise the universe would be a swindle, thought a cheat, and life a failure. The eye testifies to the truth of appearances, the ear to the truth of sounds, while touch, taste, and smell give truthful reports of the objects to which they are related. Impressions are no doubt, at first vague and indefinite, and from their imperfection, are often erroneous. But the error is incidental to the scheme—its shadow, as one might say—and is infinitesimal in proportion to the truth, while the whole tendency of things is toward its constant correction. The child's mind, beginning with blank capacities is thus slowly built up as an internal representation of outward things, the fundamental characteristic of that representation being faithfulness and reliability. The very essence and definition of truth is fidelity of representation, and this is the principle which is strictly and constantly conformed to in those early tuitions of experience which determine the first stages of mental growth.

But there is also, in these early experiences, a definite code of moral discipline, which has its roots equally in the truth of things. Long before the teacher comes on to the scene with his moral maxims, the child has taken elaborate and effective lessons in matters of right and wrong. It has learned to link conduct to its consequences, and to guide its actions accordingly. By its experimental dealings with surrounding objects, resulting in numerous falls, bumps, cuts, lacerations, burnings, and scaldings, it is taught to direct its movements so as to avoid the evil consequences. It finds pain annexed to certain actions, and that their commission entails inevitable punishment. There is no luring or lying here, no empty threats, no false promises. Nature not only inculcates a moral code, but reduces it to inexorable truth by enforcing a stern moral discipline. And, because it is obviously truthful and honest, and based on the reality of things, it is accepted as reasonable and right. Even her scale of justice is recognized and admitted. There is a proportion, a confessed harmony, between offence and penalty, slight transgressions entail slight punishments, more serious improprieties provoke graver consequences. The whole policy is just, faithful, kind, and true. Indeed, if there is one term which, more fitly than any other, marks the policy of Nature in her contributions to human character, that term is veracity.

Let Nature, then, be exonerated from this infamous charge, as she has done her part faithfully and in the right direction, and, in relieving her of this imputation, we clear the way for fixing the responsibility where it justly belongs.—Appleton's Journal.

An Adirondack Stage Driver

BY KATE FIELD.

"What is the best product of the soil?" I ask.

"Well, I reckon the human family can't be beat," replies the driver, suddenly waking up. "If you keep your eyes open tight, you'll see that there's more of 'em than you can shake a stick at."

"What is the next best crop?"

"Well, on the whole, I guess nothin' in particular."

Again subsiding, he again wakes up with the question:

"You wouldn't like to be buried here, would you?"

"Why not?"

"Because the soil's so poor you'd never rise ag'in."

I am inclined to believe my friend the driver has said this at least once before, if not oftener, for there is no consciousness in his eye not unlike that noticeable in after dinner wits immediately subsequent to the impromptu bon mot, over which sleepless nights and anxious days have been passed. Laughing with the heartiness of an ingénue in modern comedy, and being nodded to approvingly in consequence (such is the world's three even among the Adirondacks,) I make inquiries [illegible] the climate.

[illegible] climate [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] how. Nobody ever dies here except by accident. Sometimes people kind o' give out, but they are strangers, and generally come from New York. We what stay here all the year round dry up and blow away when we get tired of living. I'm gettin' sp'rser nor I used to be."

At this stage of the journey Mr. Driver seems to entertain fears of drying up before his time. Jumping out of the wagon and proceeding to a spring, he empties the remains of a bottle labelled "Castor Oil" into a glass containing very little water. It is very peculiar looking castor oil, so peculiar that I ventured to ask him whether there is any prohibitory law among the mountains.

"Guess not," answers Mr. Driver who offers to share his dose of castor oil and is rewarded for his virtue by a refusal. "We're a law unto ourselves. When there's no laws, there's no transgressors. Ain't that the best way? What's the use of makin' laws just for the fun of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] 'em? [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] prohibition temperance [illegible] [illegible] And I'll tell you what them folks that come up here and go into epileptic fits when they see a fellow warming himself with a drop [illegible] something that ain't [illegible] [illegible] the twistiest [illegible] [illegible] tobacco and coffee that ever [illegible] [illegible] not your eyes on. They [illegible] [illegible] smoking and they drink coffee as them emigrants vote in New York [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] My eyes ain't strong, though! [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]"

They go in for temperance, why, on the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] on it all round [illegible]

[illegible] Mr. Driver paused to listen but I [illegible] forbear to argue [illegible] [illegible] I cannot. Silence is supposed to imply consent [illegible] [illegible] preserve it until the putting of another question.

How [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Pretty well on the whole. We're rather church up here. The more churches the more backslidin' I find."

"Are you married, Mr. Driver?"

"No, I'm lookin' round for a rich wife. When I can find a woman worth thirty thousand dollars I reckon I'll marry her. I think considerable of women, I think they've [illegible] the country. Man have got to be so [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] step in we'll go to [illegible] as slick as [illegible] [illegible]

"No I won't neither. Here you [illegible] you Sal," interpolates the driver with a cut of the whip at the off mare. "I don't go women's rights no how. When I say I think considerable of women, I mean I think considerable of 'em in that way, but I don't want 'em in my way. Home's the place for 'em, and home influence is their sphere."—All the Year Almanac for 1870.

Vaccination

The public mind in England has lately been much excited on the subject of vaccination. Though Jenner has a statue for the beneficent discovery by which he robbed small pox of half its terrors, there are not wanting those who claim that the remedy he introduced is worse than the disease. The subject has been widely discussed by the press and has excited much attention. The paper on vaccination read by Prof. Francis Bacon of Yale before the Social Science Association is therefore especially timely. It will have a good effect in correcting false impressions, and quieting the mind of those who have been alarmed. Its length precludes us from giving more than a summary of this interesting paper. D. Bacon began with a brief history of small pox, and showed that if the disease were as fatal now as when it first appeared in Europe, from three to five thousand deaths from it would occur yearly in New York. It is to vaccination, Dr. Bacon holds, that the diminution, both in the disease itself and in the death rate from it, is due. To-day those countries in which vaccination is the most thorough suffer least from the disease. At the close of the last century it yearly killed three thousand Englishmen out of every million. From 1854 to 1864 it killed on an average only 171. In several European countries where vaccination has been more thorough, the results are even more striking. As the legislation of a country on this subject becomes more enlightened and stringent, its death rate from small pox grows smaller and smaller.

A young Swede, totally ignorant of the nature of his game, killed four bears near Lake City, Minn. Finding indications of the passage of some animals into a hole in the rocks, he laid down his old shot gun, and procuring a long pole began coaxing them out. Sparling and growling followed his proceedings, and he stepped back and leveled his gun in time to give the big black head that was presented at the hole a quieting charge in the eyes. He reloaded, dragged out the incumbent of the hole and performed the eye operation on the next one, and so on until he had bagged the four.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style from any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.
